Children's Geographies

Advancing interdisciplinary understanding of younger people's lives

Accepted for inclusion in the Thomson Reuters Social Sciences Citation Index®

Editor: Hugh Matthews, University of Northampton, UK

Volume 9, 2011, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1473-3285, Online ISSN: 1473-3277

Children's Geographies is a peer-reviewed journal that provides an international forum to discuss issues that impact upon the geographical worlds of children and young people under the age of 25 and of their families. The journal aims to be accessible to new researchers, including postgraduate students and academics at an early stage of their research careers, and to practitioners with an interest in children, youth and families. Study of the geographies of this kind, whilst emphasising the importance of place, space and spatiality, inevitably cuts across inter- and intra-disciplinary boundaries. The journal provides a forum for academics and practitioners with an interest in these multifaceted geographies, enabling new insights into the diverse and multiple realities of young people's lives.

Irish Geography
 Journal of the Geographical Society of Ireland

Editor: Ruth McManus, St. Patrick's College, Ireland

Volume 44, 2011, 3 issues per year
 Print ISSN: 0075-0778, Online ISSN: 1939-4055

Irish Geography is the premier peer-reviewed journal devoted to the geography of Ireland. The journal has been published by the Geographical Society of Ireland since 1944. An early editorial decision was to concentrate on the geography of Ireland and this has been maintained ever since.

This focus has been a source of strength to the journal and has been important in enhancing its international reputation. More recently, to reflect the changing context and increased importance of globalization and migration to Ireland, a decision was made to also allow material on the Irish diaspora and overseas networks to be included in the journal.

Entrepreneurship & Regional Development An International Journal

Impact Factor: 1.020

Editor: Alistair R. Anderson, Robert Gordon University, UK

Volume 23, 2011, 10 issues per year
Print ISSN: 0898-5626, Online ISSN: 1464-5114

Entrepreneurship and Regional Development is unique in that it addresses the central factors in economic development - entrepreneurial vitality and innovation - as local and regional phenomena. It provides a multi-disciplinary forum for researchers and practitioners in the field of entrepreneurship and small firm development and for those studying and developing the local and regional context in which entrepreneurs emerge, innovate and establish the new economic activities which drive economic growth and create new economic wealth and employment.

Environmental Communication

A Journal of Nature and Culture

Impact Factor: 0.185

Editor: Stephen Depoe, University of Cincinnati, USA

Volume 5, 2011, 4 issues per year
 Print ISSN: 1752-4032, Online ISSN: 1752-4040

Environmental Communication publishes high quality, peer-reviewed scholarship that examines theories, practices, and processes of communication as they relate to the environment around the world. As such, the journal serves as a nexus, a place of global connection and conversation, among scholars working in and across a variety of disciplines who explore how humans communicate about and within both natural and cultural environments. The journal also seeks to promote interaction between academic scholars and those who practice environmental communication, including community members, industry professionals, government officials, and others, through a number of special features, including a regularly published section devoted to practice.

Environmental Education Research

Volume 17, 2011, 6 issues per year
 Print ISSN: 1350-4622, Online ISSN: 1469-5871

Editor: Alan Reid, University of Bath, UK

Environmental Education Research is an international refereed journal which publishes papers and reports on all aspects of environmental education. The purpose of the journal is to help advance understanding of environmental and sustainability education through a focus on papers reporting research and development activities. The journal also carries more diverse papers including, for example, conference reviews, retrospective analyses of activities in a particular field, critical commentaries on policy issues and comparative aspects of an environmental education issue. The criteria for acceptance of papers are that they are analytical and critical; that the ideas being discussed are transferable to other educational systems and cultures; and that they are accessible to an international audience.

Environmental Politics

Impact Factor: 1.145
Ranking: 29/112 (Political Science); 36/66 (Environmental Studies)

Editor-in-Chief: Christopher Rootes, University of Kent, UK
Editors: John Barry, Queen's University, Belfast, UK
Elizabeth Bomberg, University of Edinburgh, UK
Neil Carter, University of York, UK

Volume 20, 2011, 6 issues per year
 Print ISSN: 0964-4016, Online ISSN: 1743-8934

Environmental Politics is concerned with four particular aspects of the study of environmental politics, with a primary, though not exclusive, focus on the industrialised countries. It:

- Examines the evolution of environmental movements and parties.
- Provides analysis of the making and implementation of public policy in the area of the environment at international, national and local levels.
- Carries comment on ideas generated by the various environmental movements and organisations, and by individual theorists.
- Aims to cover the international environmental issues which are of increasing salience. Its coverage of the developing world does not reach beyond this to the affairs of individual countries, partly because of the journal's chosen focus and partly because of the number of existing journals dealing with development.

Gender & Development

An Oxfam Journal

Editor: Caroline Sweetman, Oxfam GB

Volume 19, 2011, 3 issues per year
 Print ISSN: 1355-2074, Online ISSN: 1364-9221

Each issue of Gender & Development focuses on a topic of key interest to all involved in promoting gender equality through development. An up-to-the minute overview of the topic is followed by a range of articles from researchers, policy makers, and practitioners. Insights from development initiatives across the world are shared and analysed, and lessons identified. Innovative theoretical concepts are explored by key academic writers, and the uses of these concepts for policy and practice are explored. Each issue includes an up-to-date resources section, listing publications, electronic resources, and organisations.

Geocarto International is a professional journal serving the worldwide scientific and user community in the fields of remote sensing, GIS, geoscience and cartography. The journal is designed:

- To promote multidisciplinary research in and application of remote sensing and GIS in geosciences and environmental sciences;
 - To enhance international exchange of information on new developments and applications in the field of remote sensing and GIS and related disciplines;
 - To foster interest in and understanding of remote sensing technology and GIS technologies;
 - To encourage the publication of timely papers and research results on remote sensing and GIS applications in geosciences and environmental sciences from the worldwide science community.

Geodesy and Cartography

New to Routledge in 2011!

Co-Published with Vilnius Gediminas Technical University

Editor-in-Chief: Prof Dr Habil Jonas Skeivalas, VGTU, Lithuania

Volume 37, 2011, 4 issues per year
 Print ISSN: 1392-1541, Online ISSN: 1648-3502

This journal publishes papers in the following fields of research:

- study, establishment and improvement of the geodesy and mapping technologies,
- establishing and improving the geodetic networks,
- theoretical and practical principles of developing standards for geodetic measurements,
- mathematical treatment of the geodetic and photogrammetric measurements,
- controlling and application of the permanent GPS stations,
- study and measurements of Earth's figure and parameters of the gravity field,
- study and development the geoid models,
- study and measurements of the vertical and horizontal movements of the Earth's crust,
- geodetic information systems,
- information systems for land management and real estate cadastre,
- cadastral surveying,
- photogrammetric methods in mapping systems,
- digital mapping methods.

Geomatics, Natural Hazards and Risk

Chief Editor: Ramesh P. Singh, Chapman University, USA

Volume 2, 2011, 4 issues per year
 Print ISSN: 1947-5705, Online ISSN: 1947-5713

Geomatics, Natural Hazards and Risk publishes papers that deal with new concepts, approaches and case studies using geospatial (GIS and GPS) and remote sensing techniques to study monitoring, mapping, risk management and mitigation, risk vulnerability and early warning of natural hazards. All types of natural hazards associated with land, ocean, atmosphere, land-ocean-atmosphere coupling and those induced by climate change will be considered. The journal will also focus on the emerging problems related to multi-hazard risk assessment, multi-vulnerability risk assessment, risk quantification, visualization and communication.

Imago Mundi

The International Journal for the History of Cartography

Listed in the Thomson Reuters Social Sciences and Arts & Humanities Citation Indexes®

Editor: Catherine Delano Smith, University of London, UK

Volume 63, 2011, 2 issues per year
Print ISSN: 0308-5694, Online ISSN: 1479-7801

The English-language, fully-refereed, journal Imago Mundi was founded in 1935 and is the only international, interdisciplinary and scholarly journal solely devoted to the study of early maps in all their aspects. Full-length articles deal with the history and interpretation of non-current maps and mapmaking in any part of the world. Shorter articles communicate significant new findings or new opinions. All articles are fully illustrated. Each volume also contains three reference sections that together provide an up-to-date summary of current developments and make Imago Mundi a vital journal of record as well as information and debate.

Editor: Dr M. R. Brett-Crowther, France

Volume 68, 2011, 6 issues per year
Print ISSN: 0020-7233, Online ISSN: 1029-0400

For more than 30 years, the International Journal of Environmental Studies has been pre-eminent in its field. The environment is understood to comprise the natural and the man-made, and their interactions; including such matters as pollution, health effects, analytical methods, political approaches, social impacts etc. Papers favouring an interdisciplinary approach are preferred, because the evidence of 30 years appears to be that many intellectual tools and many causes and effects are at issue in any environmental problem - and its solution.

Managing Editor: Howard White, Executive Director of 3ie

Volume 3, 2011, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1943-9342, Online ISSN: 1943-9407

Journal of Development Effectiveness aims to support evidence-based policy making to enhance development effectiveness. It will do this by publishing high quality papers reporting evidence of the impact of projects, programs and policies in developing countries. Review papers covering a number of studies are particularly encouraged. The Journal does not subscribe to any one approach to impact evaluation, but requires that the techniques employed be rigorously applied, with a preference for studies which have been well contextualized with an appropriate use of mixed methods.

Journal of Land Use Science

Editor: Richard Aspinall, Macaulay Institute, UK

Volume 6, 2011, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1747-423X, Online ISSN: 1747-4248

The study of the nature of land use and land cover, their changes over space and time, and the processes that produce these patterns and changes can be termed 'land use science'. Land use science is necessarily an interdisciplinary science since land uses are influenced by, and influence, environmental, ecological, social and economic systems through a complex series of natural and socio-economic processes, including management and decision making. Land use science, therefore, adopts an integrated approach that couples natural and human systems and fosters interdisciplinary collaboration between social, economic, behavioural, environmental, ecological, biological and atmospheric scientists.

Mobilities

Accepted for inclusion in the Thomson Reuters Social Sciences Citation Index®

Editors: Kevin Hannam, University of Sunderland, UK
Mimi Sheller, Drexel University, USA
John Urry, Lancaster University, UK

Volume 6, 2011, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1745-0101, Online ISSN: 1745-011X

Mobilities encompasses both the large-scale movements of people, objects, capital, and information across the world, as well as more local processes of daily transportation, movement through public space, and the travel of material things within everyday life. Recent developments in transportation and communications infrastructures, along with new social and cultural practices of mobility have elicited a number of new research initiatives for understanding the connections between these diverse mobilities.

National Identities

Editors: Peter Catterall, Queen Mary, University of London, UK
David Kaplan, Kent State University, USA
Elfie Rembold, Social Science Research Centre Berlin, Germany
Christopher Vernon, University of Western Australia, Australia

Volume 13, 2011, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1460-8944, Online ISSN: 1469-9907

National Identities explores the formation and expression of national identity from antiquity to the present day. It examines the role in forging identity of cultural (language, architecture, music, gender, religion, the media, sport, encounters with 'the other' etc.) and political (state forms, wars, boundaries) factors, by examining how these have been shaped and changed over time. The historical significance of 'nation' in political and cultural terms is considered in relationship to other important and in some cases countervailing forms of identity such as religion, region, tribe or class. The focus is on identity, rather than on contingent political forms that may express it.

Planning Theory & Practice

Published in conjunction with the Royal Town Planning Institute

Senior Editor: Heather Campbell, University of Sheffield, UK

Volume 12, 2011, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1464-9357, Online ISSN: 1470-000X

Planning Theory & Practice provides an international focus for the development of theory and practice in spatial planning and a forum to promote the policy dimensions of space and place. Published four times a year in conjunction with the Royal Town Planning Institute, it publishes original articles and review papers from both academics and practitioners with the aim of encouraging more effective, two-way communication between theory and practice. The Editors invite robustly researched papers which raise issues at the leading edge of planning theory and practice, and welcome papers on controversial subjects. Contributors in the early stages of their academic careers are encouraged. Authors are requested to draw out the wider significance of their particular contribution and to write in a clear style, accessible to a broad, international audience.

Rethinking Marxism

Editor: S Charusheela

Volume 23, 2011, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 0893-5696, Online ISSN: 1475-8059

The aim of Rethinking Marxism is to stimulate interest in and debate over the explanatory power and social consequences of Marxian economic, cultural, and social analysis. To that end, we publish studies that seek to discuss, elaborate, and/or extend Marxian theory. Our concerns include theoretical and philosophical (methodological and epistemological) matters as well as more concrete empirical analyses - all work that leads to the further development of distinctively Marxian discourses.

Urban Research & Practice

Journal of the European Urban Research Association (EURA)

Editor: Rob Atkinson, University of the West of England, UK

Volume 4, 2011, 3 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1753-5069, Online ISSN: 1753-5077

Urban Research & Practice, published in association with EURA, focuses on urban policy.

As well as traditional academic papers, the journal includes a policy section, a project report section and book reviews. The policy section focuses on new policies launched at the European, national and regional levels that are of relevance to a wider audience. The project report section focuses on innovative projects being carried out at a local level (in cities or regions). One of the key aims of the journal is to seek to bridge the intellectual and geographical 'divides' that currently exist in the field of urban affairs - specifically the North/South divide and the East/West divide and also the divides between distinct academic disciplines.

Essential Books in Geography from Routledge

Urban and Regional Planning

By Peter Hall, Mark Tewdwr-Jones

This is the fifth edition of the classic text for students of urban and regional planning. It gives a historical overview of the developments and changes in the theory and practice of planning, throughout the entire twentieth century.

This extensively revised edition follows the successful format of previous editions:

- It introduces the establishment of planning as part of the public health reforms of the late nineteenth century and goes on to look at the insights of the great figures who influenced the early planning movement, leading up to the creation of the postwar planning machine.
- National and regional planning, and planning for cities and city regions, in the UK, from 1945 to 2010, is then considered. Specific reference is made to the most important British developments in recent times, including the Single Regeneration Budget, English Partnerships, the devolution of Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, the establishment of the Mayor of London and the dominant urban sustainability paradigm.
- Planning in Western Europe, since 1945, now incorporating new material on EU-wide issues, as well as updated country-specific sections.
- Planning in the United States, since 1945, now discussing the continuing trends of urban dispersal and social polarization, as well as initiatives in land use planning and transportation policies.
- Finally the book looks at the nature of the planning process at the start of the twenty-first century, reflecting briefly on shifts in planning paradigms since the 1960s and going on to discuss the main issues of the 1990s and 2000s, including sustainability and social exclusion and looking forward to the twenty-first century.

Theories and Practices of Development

2nd Edition
By Katie Willis

Theories and Practices of Development provides a clear and user-friendly introduction to the complex debates around how development has been understood and achieved. The second edition has been fully updated and expanded to reflect global political and economic shifts, as well as new approaches to development. The rise of China and India is given particular attention, as is the global economic crisis and its implications for development theories and practice. There are new sections on faith-based development, disability and sexuality, as well as greater engagement with development theories as they are put into practice in the Global North.

Environmental Policy

2nd Edition
By Jane Roberts

Series: Routledge Introductions to Environment
Evidence of climate change, resource shortages and biodiversity loss is growing in significance year by year. This second edition of Environmental Policy explains how policy can respond and bring about greater sustainability in individual lifestyles, corporate strategies, national policies and international relations. The book discusses the interaction between environmental and human systems, suggesting environmental policy as a way to steer human systems to function within environmental constraints. Environmental Policy is an accessible text with a multi-disciplinary perspective. Lively case studies drawn from a range of international examples, and completely updated for this second edition, illustrate issues such as climate change, international trade, tourism and human rights. It includes chapter summaries, suggestions for further reading and links to relevant web resources.

Young People, Place and Identity

By Peter E. Hopkins

This book works through common-sense understandings of young people's behaviours and the places they occupy. Drawing upon research from a range of contexts, including Europe, North America and Australasia, this text demonstrates the complex ways in which young people creatively shape, contest and resist their engagements with different places and identities. Engaging with research conducted with young people this book includes a broad range of topics: youth transitions; pub and club culture; political participation; media representation; family relations.
